In Brief

Faulty wiring likely cause of fire

An Eau Claire fire inspector on Tuesday said faulty wiring most likely caused an apartment building fire last week on the city's south side.

Michael Lory of the city's Fire Department said he doesn't certain what caused the inferno Saturday night at 10:11 p.m. at 2477 N. 2nd St. He officially declared the cause as "unnamed," though he expressed confidence on Tuesday that "failing in the structural wiring in the attic is the likely cause of the fire."

In a phone interview Thursday, Laski said he had "real confidence in the final assessment," but was not providing any "unnamed" cause.

Roboropa, a native of the Manc, was which was first reported at 7 p.m. Laski said the fire caused an estimated $250,000 in damage.
